*T*his is no ordinary collection. It is the most ambitious project ever undertaken by Lewis & Wood. We were very lucky to find three talented and original artists - Su Daybell, Flora Roberts and Melissa White - who have each contributed something different to create the English Ethnic collection. The result is six distinctive designs which have been turned into a group of hugely desirable fabrics and wallpapers in our Gloucestershire studio under the guidance of creative director Magdalen Jebb.

We hope you will find something to delight you.

MELISSA WHITE

Bacchus & Rococo

Melissa White is part of the artist's community in Hastings on the Sussex Coast. She was introduced to us by Liz Cann, the creative director of Zoffany, an act of great generosity for which we will always be grateful. Melissa, well known for her Elizabethan wall paintings and painted cloths, has a scholarly fascination with surface decoration and historical detail that has ensured her designs BACCHUS and ROCOCO have real authority, brought to life by her skilful hand.

FLORA ROBERTS

Sika & Doves

Flora Roberts is a professional muralist much in demand for her beautiful work. Her painting has a peaceful, lyrical quality we found immediately appealing. Flora's work is clearly inspired by nature and her knowledge and experience in the field means she really understands how pattern works on a wall. Her designs DOVES and SIKA will not date and will continue to bring joy to those lucky enough to live with them.

SU DAYBELL

Force 9 & Womad

Su Daybell is an original. A professional artist and interior decorator who also runs a unique flower shop in Tetbury, Gloucestershire. We were attracted by the exuberance of her work so asked her to join the gang and make two patterns for us. The results were the aptly named FORCE 9 and WOMAD. These panel designs are not for the faint hearted, so if what you really like is beige Fleur de Lys, these are not for you.
